All SEA members are invited to join us for the SEA Spring Development Seminar featuring Jeannie Johnson, Associate Professor in the Political Science Department at USU. Dr. Johnson worked within the Central Intelligence Agency’s Directorate of Intelligence as a member of the Balkan Task Force from 1998-1999 and served with the US State Department in Embassies Paris and Zagreb. She has wonderful experiences to share and we are so excited to learn from her!

Spies, special forces, and diplomats: Blind spots abroad and lessons for the workplace

American blindspots—born of American culture and national experience—are noticed most acutely when operating abroad, but also influence the decisions we make in work and home life. Recognizing these allows us to evaluate the benefits and potential pitfalls of the way of life we know as “American.”
